

G. O. P. Blamed for High Sugar Prices

In a speech made yesterday before a large crowd of Henderson county voters, Congressman David H. Kincheloe explained how the dilly-dallying of the Republican Congress was responsible for thirty-cent sugar in his county. Had the Congress accepted President Wilson's recommendation promptly sugar would have been saved to American purchasers. In part the Congressman explained the situation as follows:

"The Lever Food Control Act, which was passed by a Democratic Congress during the war, under which the sugar corporation operated, contained a provision ending the existence of the corporation when the armistice was signed.

"This sugar corporation bought the Cuban sugar crop of 1918, which was sold to American people at 11 and 12 cents per pound. The President, in a message to the Republican Congress on the 8th of August, 1919, called attention to the fact that the sugar corporation had ceased to function and urged this Republican Congress to pass an act immediately extending the powers of this sugar corporation. Hearings were conducted before a committee of the Senate having charge of this legislation and members of the original sugar corporation appeared before this committee and testified that they had no further powers under the original act by reason of the cessation of the war. Notwithstanding these representations by the President in his message, and the members of the sugar corporation, the Senate failed to pass the law extending the life of this corporation until December 1, 1919. The Republican House did not pass it until December 16, 1919, and the House added amendments to the Senate bill, which threw it into conference. The conference report was not adopted until the 28th day of December, 1919, and the bill did not become a law until December 31, 1919.

Many weeks before that all of the Cuban sugar had been sold to England and other countries and therefore the act was of no service to the American people. If this Republican Congress had passed the act immediately after the President had called its attention to the fact in his special message, the sugar corporation would have immediately bought the Cuban sugar crop at the same price it paid for it in 1918, and therefore the American people would have purchased sugar as cheaply in 1920 as they did in the year of 1919."

Manufacturers Cut Tire Prices 20 Per Cent

Since the recent cut in prices of automobiles we have heard on every hand the question of whether tires, gasoline and other lines of merchandise would follow. Mr. Henry Ford said that the time for high prices was at an end and it seems that he was right. Particularly in the tire field there has been much speculation for dealers on every hand have been selling tires at a reduction, but the first announcement of a manufacturer's reduction was made last week when the Lee Tire & Rubber Company of Conshohocken, Pa., made a flat reduction of from 15 to 20 per cent on their complete line. This company is best known for their line of Puncture-Proof Tires, but also manufacture cord and fabric tires in all sizes. There has been a falling off of sales in the automobile line all over the country, everyone waiting for the reduction they felt must come, but with the return of normal prices business will necessarily be stimulated.

TRAINED NURSES

The National and State Boards of Health are urging the importance of healthy young women taking advantage of present opportunities to become trained nurses. No more admirable and lucrative professions are open to women. Girls having finished one year of high school are eligible. The pressing need of America is great. The usual epidemics, and possibility of others, and the great endeavor of our people to reach and maintain better and higher standards of health for the entire nation, causes this new demand for nurses. Those willing to avail themselves of this opportunity can write to Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Board of Health Building, Louisville, Ky. The advantages are excellent, the training giving almost a University course, the pay most desirable, the position secured and the work fine and needed.

THE OTHER SIDE

N. H. Trimble has returned from Nicholasville where he went a few days ago in order to get the real facts regarding the unfortunate killing of Arthur Denman by Prof. T. B. Threlkeld. Mr. Trimble says the people are deeply in sympathy with Professor Threlkeld and family. He learned that after Professor Threlkeld and son had gotten into the office of Denman Bros., an employe was sent out of the room, the door locked, when the altercation between Logan Threlkeld, son of Professor Threlkeld and the Denmans took place. Professor Threlkeld attempted to get out of the place, but finding himself locked in, fired the fatal shot.

The bungalow is one of the prettiest and most modern in the city.

LEWIS ECTON DEAD

Lewis Ecton, formerly of this county, died at his home near Moorefield, Nicholas county, Tuesday night. The burial was in Machpelah Cemetery this afternoon, with services at the grave. Mr. Ecton is survived by his wife and two children. He was 63 years old and was highly esteemed and respected.

A guilty conscience needs no press agent.

A Worthy Contribution

Rosecoe Gilmore Stott, a clever prose composer in the November Green Book gives a story free from fancy, concerning the life work of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart. It tells of her early impressions how to make happy her own people of the Cumberland foothills, and the idea that pressed hard on her to teach the old as well as the young the fundamental principles of a common school education, so that from their own efforts these people may climb high and delve deep in learning what the world is made of and its aggressiveness. The writer had a fine subject and the story is a most interesting one. We know Mrs. Stewart and are proud that we had the opportunity and did contribute, though in a small way, in assisting her to attain to the goal of her personal ambition, superintendent of schools. The story of this woman, famous by her own efforts, as published in the Green Book, amply pays the cost.

Country Women's Club

The Country Women's Club met in regular session at the club rooms yesterday, the meeting being presided over by Mrs. Charles W. Anderson. There was a full attendance of members and an interesting program was given, a feature of which was a lecture "Color Selection in Dress," by Miss Mary Lesh, of the University of Kentucky. Miss Endora South gave two beautiful violin numbers, which were greatly enjoyed. During the social hour, which followed the business meeting and program, lovely refreshments were served. Hostesses for yesterday's meeting were: Mrs. W. E. Jones, Mrs. George Belevins, Mrs. R. M. Jones, Mrs. Charles Anderson and Mrs. Earl Farris.

Bank street

Of course there are extremes in both directions, but as a general thing a woman lives longer with a corset on the outside than a man does with corn whiskey on the inside.

After all, it is a good thing that girls have not taken to wearing the trousers. If they did, they would want to wear them as tight as they wear their skirts, and that would be awful!

So far as we know, while some of them proceed leisurely, no section hand was ever accused of not earning his stipend.

Democratic Speaking

Congressman J. B. Aswell, of Louisiana, addressed a good crowd at the courthouse in this city Tuesday night in the interest of the Democratic ticket. He was introduced by Judge E. W. Senff and made a pleasing address to his hearers, bringing out the important issues of the present campaign and convincing all that after all, the Democratic party is not what the so-called Republican orators would have them believe. The blunders of Warren G. Harding were brought to the front in a way that made for the merriment of many and showed plainly his incompetency for the office to which he aspires.

TRAVELING MEN FAVOR GOVERNOR COX

Traveling men of Eastern Kentucky met at Ashland and formed a Cox Commercial Travelers' Club last week. E. H. Phipps was elected chairman, W. H. Caudill, secretary and treasurer. The club will back the candidacy of Cox and Roosevelt, Senator J. C. W. Beckham and W. J. Fields for Ninth District Congressman. The club passed resolutions scoring scurrilous Republican literature attempting to mislead the traveling salesmen, which literature they stated has been proven false to their satisfaction.

GYPSY SMITH FAVORS LEAGUE

A profound impression was created in Louisville when Gypsy Smith, the famous English Evangelist, who is conducting a revival in Louisville, declared in favor of the League of Nations.

"If the League of Nations," he said, "prevents one war, it proves its right to existence. No man can be a follower of Jesus Christ and not be a lover of peace and a propagandist for peace. He was the Prince of Peace, the author of peace and the bringer of peace, and just in proportion as we are faithful to Him and the great principles for which He died we shall do all in our power to promote the peace of the world.

"Any association or league which helps to bring about the harmony and the brotherhood of nations is in line with the Divine will. And somewhere back of my mind and deeply rooted in my heart is the feeling that the divine father is looking to the great English-speaking races of America and England, to bring the reign of universal peace.

"What an ideal for us to strive after! Along that road lies peace to the world, glory to God and good will among men."

Mr. Smith, who has recently arrived from England, says that the English people want the League of Nations.

JOHN REDMOND DEAD

Died this morning on Holt avenue, John Redmon, aged about 80 years. He was three times married and is survived by his wife, a son in Florida and a daughter in Missouri. Funeral arrangements will be made on arrival of his son from Florida. He was a member of the Christian church and our information is he was a Confederate soldier.

Mrs. R. G. Stoner, of this county, and daughter, Mrs. Sydney G. Clay, of Paris, were guests at a luncheon at the Seelbach Hotel, Louisville, on last Saturday. The other guests at the gathering were: Mrs. Luke P. Blackburn, Mrs. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Mrs. Helm Bruce and Mrs. George R. Washburne.

During the honeymoon she imagines that he is a Greek god with the world at his feet, but about ten years later she regards him as an overgrown insect.

"Make it Holy Covenant Crusade," Says Senator

"Make it a holy covenant crusade from now until the end; other issues can wait for two years," Charles A. Towne, former Republican United States Senator from Minnesota, bas wired to Governor James M. Cox. The message, sent by Senator Towne from Tucson, Ariz., where he is seeking a return of health, read:

"Nothing can picture my angnapiness that illness should keep me silent in this most significant campaign of our history.

"Let me advise one thing with all my soul. Henceforth concentrate on the covenant. I mean not relatively, but absolutely. Mention nothing else. Make it a holy covenant crusade to the end. Other issues can wait two years. This has waited twenty centuries and if we fail in our duty now, God alone can measure the cosmic epoch of recurrence.

"For two thousand years Christians have made a mockery of the first and most inclusive tenet in their faith. For two thousand years a civilization blasphemously calling itself Christian has been perfecting the machinery by which death might be brought quickest to the vastest number of men and the surest destruction made of the highest available of labor sacrifices.

"In the face of the great war and its effects no public action not aimed at the consummation of peace has any sanction, human or divine, until that he accomplished. All else is sacrilege.

"The prophetic hymn of that fair Bethlehem night must become the triumphant chorus of a contrite world. The United States can complete that harmony now.

"God has waited for the hour. He waits for us. We must not, dare not, fail."

DEATH

William Boecraft, aged 46 years, a resident of this county and member of the Antioch church, passed to his reward on yesterday, his life being cut short by a tubercular bone affection. Mr. Boecraft is survived by his wife and four children, also four brothers, Edward and Mike, of Clark county; James, of Fayette, and Tom, of this county. Mr. Boecraft was a good citizen and kind husband and father.

Slayer of March Is Freed by Jury

George Rose, 65 years old, is a free man because a jury in the Fayette Circuit Court at twenty minutes to four Tuesday freed him of a charge of killing E. L. March, Lexington furniture dealer, on the ground that he fired the fatal shots under stress of temporary emotional insanity. March had been under indictment, charged with assaulting Rose's 14-year-old granddaughter, Mary Margaret Rose. The crowd in the courtroom cheered from every corner of the public institution when the jury brought in the verdict, Judge Kerr ordering their arrest, but no arrests were made. The jury brought in the verdict after ten minutes' consideration of the evidence.

Both Harry Miller and W. C. G. Hobbs for the defense, declared that "after one had heard the story of Mary Margaret, twelve men could not find a man guilty for what Rose had done. Miller, in declaring Rose was temporary unbalanced, said:

"Rose had but one thought on his mind, a thought of his little granddaughter, assaulted, 14-year-old girl who would he pointed out as a girl that was not pure, and all because of a disgusting, lustful man of past middle age and with a wife and family."

"We ask for no compromise verdict. Either return to us an unqualified acquittal or we ask you to impose the severest penalty that you can impose under the law—death."

Keene Daingerfield, Assistant County Attorney, said:

"I am the father of a little girl. I know how George Rose felt when such a thing happened to his granddaughter. I would have done what George Rose has done, but I would have sincerely hoped that the jury would have been composed of men with sufficient courage to send me to the penitentiary for the rest of my life."

In closing the case, Commonwealth Attorney Hogan Yancey declared:

"Rose made a pledge to his son on his deathbed in which he had promised to protect the child with his life. He has declared that he would have killed March despite this, out of love for his granddaughter, and he comes into the courtroom hiding and seeking liberty, not willing to pay for the carrying out of his pledge, behind a plea of temporary insanity."

Dr. George P. Sprague, specialist in mental and nervous diseases, and Dr. C. A. Nevitt, answering a hypothetical question, said they believed the man insane when he fired the shot. Police Judge John J. Riley and Magistrate Charles P. Dodd, in whose office Constable Rose was employed, both testified as to Rose's peculiar actions after the indictments were returned against March.

Fifteen hundred negroes met at the Jackson Street M. E. Church in Louisville to wage a campaign against the million-dollar school bond issue, and to push the candidacy of Wilson Lovett, negro, for the Board of Education. Lovett told his audience the negroes formed one-fifth of the population of that city. "There are five members of the Board of Education. Setting aside for a moment the crying need of one to protect our scholastic interest, we are entitled to a member on this board on the basis of population. By securing the solid support of the colored people, provided they vote for the colored candidate and not for any other candidate whatever, they are practically certain to elect a member of their own race as member of the Board since the white vote will be divided between three white candidates, Camp, Woods and Mrs. Leidinger."

The meeting wound up with the formation of an organization to put Lovett across by "single shooting" him, and officers were named to raise money and line up the dark vote.

Art and Development In Little Children

Art is a big word to use in connection with a little child who at present is able to distinguish only the primary colors and whose drawings are a fantastic scribble. But all that the child is going to be grows out of what he is, and all that he is going to have depends upon the wisdom of our giving now.

When we ask ourselves what art means to a human being we soon answer our own question by saying: Art is a means of happiness and a means of expression. If we ask further, whether it may be both to all, we reply: It may be a means of happiness to all, and although to only a few can it be a way of adequate expression, yet there is little doubt that everybody, if carefully trained, can to some degree, express himself through art. The importance of art then is not the possibility that we may discover and develop a few masters, but that we may open to all the people new pathways of self-expression and happiness.

The beginning of every art is in appreciation. The wise mother today does not have her child "begin music" by sitting him down, reluctant, at the piano and having him "take" music lessons, like an inoculation. She sees to it that he hears much good music from the cradle days until he is, as it were, saturated with music, and is eager to find some way of expressing music with his voice and fingers.

And so the way to help a child to art is to help him to feel for color, to rejoice in fire and sunlight and shadows, to enjoy tracing out happy designs, and perhaps best of all, to learn to love pictures.

The homeliest playthings may be used to develop the color-scheme. Bright bits of pottery, marbles, and scraps of cloth, shells, flowers, gold fish, all afford daily opportunities, and even a display of bright fruit

2 1-2 miles from Sharpsburg, 10 miles from Carlisle, 14 miles from Mt. Sterling. On Maysville to Mt. Sterling pike, a designated Federal Highway to be maintained by the Government, construction started.

This farm has been owned by Mr. Berry for 40 years and has never been on the market for sale. Been used as a stock farm, and is ready right now to cultivate and raise the maximum of crops of all kinds.

It will be subdivided and sold to the "High Dollar" in 4 tracts, a tract of 50 acres unimproved—a tract of 100 acres with tenant house and tobacco barn and all in blue grass sod—a tract of 150 to 200 acres with improvements and another tract without improvements. Remember we sell to suit the purchasers. Will sell you just the number of acres you want. Will either sell two or more tracts together or divide any tract.

IMPROVEMENTS—Seven-room brick house, hall and two porches, 3 tenant houses, 4 tobacco barns, stock barn, concrete silo, cribs for 1,500 barrels of corn—can house 40 acres of tobacco. One of the finest watered farms anywhere.

Land is level and gently rolling—very fertile limestone soil. 40 acres in cultivation, 30 acres wheat stubble, balance in grass, of which there are 250 acres of fine blue grass sod. Located in good neighborhood, only 2 1-2 miles from Sharpsburg, that good town of 600 population with 2 banks—one of the finest graded schools in the state, 5 churches, a splendid business place in a section of good pikes.

It is sure a "Safe Bet" to buy this land, either for a home or as an investment to make a big percent on your money. Now is the time to buy land. Attend this sale and we will tell you and convince you why. Mr. Berry is unable to look after this farm, therefore, he has directed us to sell.

LISTEN—Don't miss this opportunity. Investigate this property is all we ask. More rich fertile soil ready for corn, hemp and tobacco on this farm than any you will find in several counties. This farm will be under the hammer to sell and we guarantee no by-bids and a fair business treatment to all. See how we conduct our sales and you will know why we sell more real estate than any other real estate men in Kentucky.

Mr. Wilson, on the farm, will show it to you, or inquire of Mr. T. E. Adams, at Citizens Bank, at Sharpsburg, or see P. W. Berry, at his other farm, where he lives on same pike near this farm.

A farm will be sold on very easy terms and for possession March 1st, 1921.

preserves or aluminum dishes in the kitchen and the use of well-selected paint and wall-papers may accustom a child to good taste in the humblest home.

All studies that have been made of children's interest in pictures indicate that their first liking is almost wholly for the story. They are not very particular about the color, and they have no inborn taste for the Old Masters. The people in the pictures are their friends, and it is the dramatic rather than the esthetic consideration that affects them.

This suggests what we are to do. Let us select picture-books and pictures for the home walls that tell beautiful stories in a beautiful way. Let us implant images that will always be treasures worth while, both because they are good art and because they are eternally inspiring.

Having done what we can, early and often, to help the child enjoy color and see beauty in nature and the home, having made good pictures his friends, we may expect to find him ready to make some efforts at self-expression through pictures. Good sense tells us that we should place within his reach a few strong colors, an easy medium and models largely of his own choosing. Soft crayons furnish the best first medium and adequate colors. His first efforts will be to portray an idea rather than an image. If he starts to make a night picture it will probably consist of a row of stars. Design rather than drawing, will be his mood, and his efforts to portray action will be extremely "impressionistic." Freedom, joy and vigor rather than accuracy should be the aim. Tracing is useless and copying vain, but the young child who makes pictures his other language, who traces to say something with his fingers, has begun to climb the "Delectable mountains."

Knowledge in Farming Means Money for You

A recent publication put out by the Soils Department, of the College of Agriculture, gives some very interesting facts as gained from the experimental fields located in Meigs, Cracken, Graves, Logan, Muhlenburg, Shelby, Fayette, Madison and Laurel counties. These experiments have been running for a number of years and definite information has been established so that the farmers in practically all sections of the state can gain valuable information as to the methods of rotating crops and fertilizing the soil with the idea of improving the soil and increasing crops.

This bulletin is ready for distribution and can be secured by writing a post card to the Experiment Station, asking for publication No. 228.

The "Pep" of the Ages

"Mother, what is meant by the forty-niners? I heard a man say today that his grandfather was a forty-niner and he seemed to be proud of it. I never heard of them and I wondered who they were."

Bobby looked up from his books as he questioned his mother, who had just come into the sitting room with Betty after doing the evening's work.

"Well," replied Mrs. Blake, "any one would be proud of having a successful forty-niner in his family, I should think, for it took a great deal of push, energy and determination to make that trip and stick to it until the goal and the gold were accomplished."

"The forty-niners, my son, were the men and women who went to California in 1849 or shortly thereafter, that being the year in which gold was discovered in that state."

"Oh, I did not think it took much grit to go to California," returned Bobby, a little disappointed. "I've heard lots of people say they were going to take a trip to California, or that they had been there."

"Oh, yes, laughed his mother, "but going to California in 1849 was somewhat different from going in 1920. The forty-niners went before the railroads were built."

"My gracious," said Betty, who had seen pictures of the Rockies, "how did they go? How could they cross the rivers and mountains?"

"That was not the worst," replied her mother. "They had to go very slowly, driving in prairie schooners, as they called the wagons in which they rode, and they had to fight rivers and mountains and Indians, and wild animals and scorching sands and long stretches without water and often without food. They were exceedingly brave and courageous—every step was a battle of hardship, and they endured terrible privations to reach the land they sought, and after they reached it most of them had a hard battle to keep alive and get a footing, and then had a continuous fight to hold it. Very few were successful."

"Gee, I don't wonder he was proud of his old grandfather," said Bobby. "I can see now that the old fellow had some pep to stand all those things and get there. I wonder if he got much gold."

"I can't tell you that," replied his mother, "but not only gold seekers of olden days, but all ambitious people of today as well must have 'pep' as you call it, and a good deal of energy and perseverance to succeed in any walk of life. Those were brave men and unfaltering women, who dared so much to accomplish their aims, but the gold country of accomplishment is all around you now, Bobby, and it is equally open to you, also, Betty, and you can only acquire the stride that leads into it by the right beginning. You are saving regular and systematically, even when your regular saving means a self-denial, as it sometimes does and will continue to do, but you are getting into the stride that leads to the gold country of achievement, just as surely as did the old forty-niners when they whipped up his ox team and started out. When you had bought your first Thrift Stamp you thought you never could fill your card. But it filled faster than you dreamed, and then you thought you never would get your Savings Stamps; but lo and behold, that was soon accomplished. and then your first Savings Certificates, and a little bird tells me that along about Christmas time you may find it quite possible to have a man-size certificate to put with your baby bonds."

"That's fine news, mother—I've found your hunches generally come true."

The success of your employer is your success, so never knock.

WORLD'S DECREASING GOLD SUPPLY DEMANDS ATTENTION

The world's production of gold has of recent years been rapidly declining, while the world's business activities are enormously expanding. The Orient, with largely more than one-half of the world's population, and Africa, with its almost boundless natural resources, are being opened up for large material activities. We are only at the beginning of the utilization of the vast resources of the United States. Canada, Mexico and South America, and the isles of the sea are all moving forward for an expansion in business and in world commerce. Europe, despite the Bolshevism which threatens the whole world, but which we believe will be destroyed, is shaking off the burden of inertia which held it back for a while following the armistice, and England and France and other countries are beginning to ahab with industrial activity.

And yet, with all of this coming world-wide sweep of new and expanding trade and industry and commerce, the output of gold steadily declines. On the present method of basing all business upon gold, a steady decrease in gold production would mean world-wide depression and poverty. It hardly seems conceivable that civilization cannot find some way in which to do business other than that which makes prosperity or poverty depend upon whether we mine a large or a small quantity from year to year of the yellow metal.

If decreasing gold output means, as it has always meant, far-reaching poverty, and increasing gold output means abounding prosperity, and if no other way can be found to avoid such a condition, then it would pay the governments of the world to spend money with the utmost freedom to find gold and mine it wherever it can be found, regardless of the cost, for the prosperity produced by an abundant supply of gold would far exceed the cost of thus increasing its output.

We merely raise the question of the gold supply and its influence on the coming years, because no time is to be lost in meeting this situation. The financial interests of the world cannot afford to delay a study of this decreasing gold along with the world's enormously increased demand for gold. But the financiers are not the ones most deeply interested. They can live whether business interests prosper or suffer. The statesman and the business men of the world are the ones who must give immediate study to the whole financial situation in the light of the rapid decline in gold production, at a time when all the world is apparently ready for a tremendous burst of activity, halted now—throttled indeed—mainly by the lack of that gold which, if available, would flood the whole earth with abounding prosperity.—Manufacturers Record.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE H. R. PREWITT

A REPUBLICAN TELLS WHY TO VOTE FOR COX

"To insure our entering the League a vote for Cox is a vote for the League. A vote for Harding is a vote for no one knows what. Our entrance into the League of Nations is, I am firmly persuaded, an absolute necessity for four reasons:

A League and our membership in it are needed to "finish the job," for it is not yet over "over there."

It is necessary in order to secure general disarmament and to save ourselves from the crushing taxation (billions of dollars a year), and aggravation of the high cost of living which the dreadnaughts and other preparations for war will soon require. If we don't combine with the rest of the world we must compete with the rest of the world.

It is necessary in order to prevent another great world war. The world is so shrunken by rapid transportation that frequent contracts produce frequent irritations and conflicts which must be dealt with. These can be settled peacefully only through the League of Nations. Otherwise war is as certain as the harvest follows seedtime.

We are in honor-bound by the deeds of our soldiers. We are talking of monuments. The greatest monument to those who died in the war against war should be in the League of Nations to perpetuate, as well as commemorate their work. To secure safeguards for peace was the cause for which the soldiers fought and died.

COMMODITY MARKETING IS THE SOLUTION

There are going to be some tall doings among the farmers of the country during the coming winter months. The men who own and feed livestock will discuss plans to make their business more profitable and those who grow other farm products are going to see about this question of marketing so that they will get better prices.

No doubt an important part of the discussions will include ways and means to keep down prices to the consumer. It can be done. The nub of the problem lies in the enormous increase in valuation of commodities after they have left the producers' hands. When a man can only get 35 cents a bushel for red Astrachan apples, which have cost him 36 cents to raise, while at the same time red Astrachans are selling at $4 to $6 a bushel in the city, there certainly is some way of equalizing things.

But farmers must realize that the marketing problem is not solved by communities of them getting together and selling their products co-operatively. The solution is in MARKETING BY THE COMMUNITY. The orange raisers of California have proven that. Also the raisin growers.

Successful marketing in the future will be in an association of men who raise all the wheat, an association of men who raise all the corn, another of those who raise all the beef, etc., each association selling the total year's crop at a fixed price.

This newspaper plans to tell its readers important facts about COMMODITY MARKETING in the near future.

BEWARE OF POLITICAL TRICKS

It is reported the country is full of employed spokesmen in the interest of the Republican campaign. This is another undisputed way of making votes by them. A great number of Republicans having changed from Harding to Cox has been the cause of this last trick. They are sending their emissaries over the county, who claim that they are converted from Democrats, and with many others are rushing to get on the bandwagon and be in line with Harding. They find not a few who are easily persuaded. Now if this don't accomplish their end they are swift to appeal to them on the statements that Mr. Harding will be elected and they would have a chance with others for lucrative appointments. We warn our people against any such political tricks. The Democratic party will be successful by the people who believe in the League of Nations and vote for the Democratic nominee, who stands for all righteousness in the name of the common people and the advancement of mankind.

IN A MESS

Senator Harding in such a mess over mis-statements is in such a tangle that the mere statement "I did not say it," don't count. The stenographer translated his own hieroglyphics, which reads in substance, "France is at this very time conferring with me relative to a new league." Senator Harding should stay with his mouth, for to start it going and then go off and leave it means trouble. The Senator has been called down with a "sickening thud" by both President Wilson and the French representative at Washington and people are wondering what will be next. The fact is, that front porch is a better place for the Senator at all times.

MAKE YOUR WORD GOOD, LADIES!

Now that Colonel Webster P. Huntington, of this city, and Ohio, who was a very close personal friend of Governor James M. Cox, and organizer of the First Cox Club in Kentucky, has "flopped" to Harding, we suppose some of our good Republican lady friends who remarked that they would not vote for anything Colonel Huntington was for on account of his "dampness," will now put their stamp under the Rooster and let him crow for James M. Cox for President.

If a woman has anything worth telling she tells it—and if she has anything worth showing she shows it.

Doubt doesn't need room in order to edge in.

If you hear anything good about a man, tell it. Be that sort of a gossip.

Try to act human. The man who takes himself seriously is always regarded as a joke by other people.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMENTS

Secretary Sharp is taking pictures of our Welcome Signs on the pikes, and making them into postal cards. These will be nice for our merchants to send out to some of their out-of-town customers; why not get a supply!

As we were not satisfied with the report from the Census Bureau we took the matter up with them, sending a copy of our letter to Congressman Fields, and, as is customary with requests submitted to him, he replies that he had taken the matter up and would see that we had prompt attention given in regard to same. Mr. Fields has always been prompt and accommodating in all such matters referred to him, and we wish to publicly thank him in this manner.

The freight rate question, referred to the Chamber of Commerce, will be taken up by the State Commerce Commission at Frankfort the 8th of November. Captain Petry and another member of the Transportation Committee will represent the case before the commission and we feel certain that the present condition of rates will be relieved.

Secretary Sharp will leave Friday to attend the National Association of Commercial Secretaries at Chicago on the 25th, 26th and 27th of this month.

Dr. C. W. Compton and Rev. T. Benton Hill have joined the bunch of "live ones." If you are still a dead one and do not desire to become a live one, we suggest that you see George Eastin and pick out your ensket.

Realizes Race Danger In "Old" Kentucky

The fact that Republican politicians who control election machinery in Louisville have located the polling places in negro barber shops and negro homes, has aroused Oklahoma Democrats to the avoidance of similar conditions. Cam Campbell, chairman of the State Democratic Committee in a public statement issued to the voters of Oklahoma calls the attention to the deplorable condition in Louisville. "Is there a white woman in Oklahoma," asks Mr. Campbell, "who would voluntarily enter such a place?"

"Republicans know that there is not. They think that the white women of Louisville will not dare to enter the doors of these negro barber shops, negro pool halls and negro dives, and have invented this expedient to carry the State of Kentucky for Harding, and to carry it against Cox, who believes in a white man's government for the historic state.

"What Republicans have done in Kentucky they would do in Oklahoma. Every man with a head on his shoulders knows that the trick employed by the Republican managers in Louisville would be duplicated by the Republicans in Oklahoma in case this state should have the misfortune to fall into their power."

Can Kentucky, the state where aristocracy first found a home, stand the guff of the segregation laws perpetrated by the Republicans? Where are your ideals, Kentucky? Awake to the seriousness of the situation!

$1 a Dozen for Eggs

Some of the leading market men are predicting that eggs will go to $1 a dozen this coming winter. This statement is based upon the fact that results show that on September 1st, 1920, there were over a million less cases of eggs than in 1919, and with the increased daily consumption of eggs it means that high prices are to be expected this coming winter.

Farmers should make every possible effort to give their farm flock suitable housing conditions so as to reap some of the benefits of these high prices. All windows in the houses should be repaired and the windows washed so as to make the house light and cheery for the chickens during the winter when they are confined indoors. Bring the pullets in and get them accustomed to the house before they start their fall laying season. Clean up thoroughly and disinfect the house with some well-known disinfectant or spray the house with whitewash. If there is a dirt floor the dirt should be changed and every possible condition should be brought about to make the poultry house sanitary and then with proper feeding the farmers should get eggs during the winter season.

It is preposterous to scoff at money. It buys you luxury, health, so-called friends, make-believe love, and other baubles that men hold dear, but it cannot buy you heaven or the fond love in your baby's eyes.

Want Social Equality In Your Church?

The Louisville Leader, a negro paper, under date of October 9th, publishes the following editorial explaining itself:

"Last Monday morning the Rev. M. P. Hunt visited the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance and invited the negro ministers to attend the Gypsy Smith Revival. Bishop A. J. Carey, of the A. M. E. church, was the guest of the alliance. He asked Rev. Hunt what provision would be made for the colored ministers. When the white clergyman replied that a section of the platform would be railed off for the negro brethren, the bishop said emphatically, 'Not for us! Not for us!' Bishop Carey expressed the earnest hope that not a single negro minister of the city would attend the Gypsy Smith revival under such conditions. And may the worthy prelate be heeded.

"Silly, devilish segregation everywhere! Even in Gypsy Smith tabernacle, built by Christians (?) for the saving of souls—the souls, not of all men, but of white men. No wonder the incubus of segregation curses America when white ministers—God's ambassadors (?) believe in it and encourage and aid and abet it. Silly! Is that the word? Black ministers of the gospel must be penned off from white ministers of the gospel in God's house. Why? No white man, not even a clergyman, can give a reason that will hold water.

"But the negro understands. It is this: If negroes are not separated from white people by rails or ropes or chalk lines that means that the black man is the social equal of the white man, and the mere thought of 'social equality' is enough to keep the Holy Spirit from operating in his midst. While his mental stomach is heaving from the nauseous irritant of social equality his spiritual nature cannot at the same time respond to the gracious influence and the quickening power of the Holy Spirit.

"What white man has been made worse or what colored man made better by their sitting without a rail or sign between them?"

"Passing through the portals of the sacred edifice he breathes a sigh of relief and says to himself, 'Now at last I have come to a place where there is no foolish separation of men on the basis of color and race.' But, alas! the bitter disappointment.

"There is no place on true religion for segregation."

OLD RIVALS MEET AT LEXINGTON SATURDAY

The effects of the mild victory of Miami University over the University of Kentucky last Saturday is to put the Kentucky Wildcats on their toes and to bring them to a more serious realization of the hard battle that confronts them when they meet Sewanee on Stoll Field Saturday, October 23. The playing at Miami is very encouraging to the Kentucky men when they realize that the Big Red Team is one of the fastest and heaviest on the Kentucky schedule, and that the Miami aggregation has lost only one game in thirty-six played consecutively.

Sewanee is one of the oldest of the University of Kentucky football rivals. The results of games played between these institutions during the last five years have been exceedingly close, and the standing of the two teams during this period is tied. Out of four games played Kentucky has won one, Sewanee one and the other two have resulted in deadlocks. The results of the various years follow: 1915, Kentucky 7, Sewanee 7; 1916, Kentucky 0, Sewanee 0; 1917, Sewanee 7, Kentucky 0; 1918, no game on account of the war; 1919, Kentucky 6, Sewanee 0.

This victory of Kentucky in 1919 was the first defeat Sewanee has ever met "on the mountain" and the sting of its humiliation is stirring the Purple warriors to bring all they have in the way of football skill up to Kentucky Saturday. People in all parts of Tennessee and Kentucky are watching the outcome of the annual struggle between these two old rivals, and hundreds of football enthusiasts are expected to gather at Lexington to witness the contest.

There is a vigorous practice on Stoll Field each afternoon, at which old signals are practiced and new plays learned. Coach Duncan, realizing the strength of the Tigers, is taking no chance of losing the game through lack of practice. Kentucky has developed some wonderful football material this season and boasts a well-balanced machine. The Sewanee game is to be one of the hardest fought battles of the season, and will call for the exhibition of each team's "very best."

The probable lineup of the teams for the Sewanee-Kentucky game on Saturday is:

Kentucky—Rice, Marphree (Captain), Colpitts, Post, Ramsey, Servier, Heber, Lavin, Fuller, Shanklin, Pribble.

Sewanee—Conway, Satterlee, Stivers, Stoney, Benton, Elam, Miller, Harper (Captain), Payne, McCrory, Smith.

About the time a man begins to think he owns the world that small portion he does own is taken from him. Don't for Heaven's sake, become conceited. It will ruin you.

If you are honest you rid the world of a cheat and reduce the charge for jails and police officers.

At this season of the year many farmers of Kentucky will hog down corn and soy beans. In some cases it will be corn alone; in others beans alone; while in still others it will be corn and soy beans together. The Animal Husbandry Department, of the Experiment Station has found that it pays to give hogs tankage in a self-feeder when hogging down corn alone. The grain being as much as 90 per cent greater taking into consideration the cost of the tankage.

When soy beans are hogged down alone it has been found very profitable to allow the hogs 2 1-2 per cent of their weight in corn daily rather than a full feed of corn. Hogs should be turned into soy beans when the leaves are beginning to turn yellow and the beans are in the dough stage, and when the kernel is dented on the ear of the corn.

Look this one over—Will be offered in two tracts—41 acres and improvements and 25 acres unimproved

Hasband and wife debated the League of Nations at the Valley Station Schoolhouse on the Eighteenth Street Road Friday night, in Louisville, when Mrs. Evelyn Sneed Barnett met Ira S. Barnett on the hustings. Mrs. Barnett, a noted writer of Louisville, is a Democrat, and her husband, a Republican election officer, is fighting the League of Nations. Therefore, they had it out on the stump. Mrs. Barnett predicted that she would have the last word.

The truly, truly broken-hearted have silence for their most eloquent petition.

TO THE DEMOCRACY OF KY:

The National Democratic Headquarters is imperatively in need of funds with which to finance the present campaign and has appealed to me to offer an opportunity to the Democrats to aid. This I am pleased to do. Every voter, man or woman, who earnestly desires the election of our ticket is requested to give without delay to the Editor of this paper, who will immediately forward it to John R. Downing, State Treasurer for National Committee, Citizens' Union National Bank, Louisville, such voluntary contribution as he or she may care to make. Same will be forwarded promptly to National Headquarters in New York, with name of donor. Contributions, no matter how small, will be accepted and appreciated.

A hearty response to this call is confidently expected.

Twelve Stands on the League of Nations

Twelve different positions on the League of Nations is Senator Harding's record since President Wilson has brought that document back from the Versailles Peace Conference.

The Republican bill boards around the country are reading "Let's be done with wiggles and wobbles." These must have been written by a Republican with a keen sense of humor, for Senator Harding has done nothing but wiggle and wobble on this question since it came up.

When the peace treaty was first considered Harding lined up with the mild reservationists.

His first change of front came when he joined the Lodge reservation crowd. His next shift of front came when he voted in favor of a separate peace through the Knox resolution. Since the nomination he has completely repudiated all of his past actions.

The following quotations from his speeches on the League of Nations indicate the lack of conviction, his illogical, contradictory habit of mind and varying positions taken:

"Marion, July 22 (speech of acceptance)—I can speak unreservedly of the American aspiration and Republican commitment for an association of nations co-operating in sublime accord to attain and preserve peace through justice rather than force."

"Marion, August 28—It is not uncommon for the advocates of the League of Versailles to contract unfavorably the Hague Tribunal upon the ground that the tribunal 'lacks teeth.' Very well; then let's put teeth into it."

"Same speech—If the league has been so untwined and interwoven into the peace of Europe that its good must be preserved in order to stabilize the peace of that continent, then it may be amended or revised."

"Marion, September 5—Undoubtedly there is much that is good in the covenant of Versailles. I have no desire to fling that all aside."

"Marion, September 6—We are all agreed now that amendment or revision or reconstruction is possible and vastly better than reservations."

"Marion, September 21—If I can have my way we will never enter a fraternity that is founded on force."

"Baltimore, September 27—I am without a single program constructive in character about an association of nations. . . . The first thing I will do is to try to find a plan for an association of nations behind which all Americans will stand."

Imagine a Presidential candidate trying to hoodoo the thinking people into voting for such a hypocrite under the impression that he will try to please everybody! This statement was made in answer to a query fired from the crowd and he received the deserved jeers from an intelligent audience. He had heretofore taken many stands on many questions, even on the League of Nations, and at this point he says he has no program whatever in regard to an association of nations. Guess he is waiting for "some of his bosses" to inform him how he should present himself on this all important question!

"Des Moines, October 7—I do not want to clarify those obligations. I want to turn back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection that I am seeking."

"Marion, October 12—I am unalterably opposed to going into the League of Nations as that particular proposition now stands. I am in favor of a world association that will discourage or tend to prevent war."

It is evident that Harding's statement of October 7th, rejecting the League of Nations in toto, causing several of the Republican leaders to holt the party, threw a real fright into the G. O. P. Senatorial ring which is managing this campaign. Hence his October 12th statement is plainly an effort to hedge in order to retain the support of the pro-league element in the Republican party. The truth of the matter is that there isn't a bit of idealism or moral leadership in Mr. Harding's makeup. He realizes that a great proportion of the American people are idealistic enough to back a movement for world peace, and he is politician enough to make whatever effort he can to hold them in line.

MARKETS AND ORGANIZATIONS IN THE SHORT COURSE

Special consideration in the short course in agriculture which begins November 1, 1920, and ends February 26, 1921, will be given the markets and market organizations course. The question of marketing is certainly one of the farmers' big problems at this time and the task of handling the situation becomes more difficult daily. The study of the subject prepared for the short course student is constructed for the greatest benefit in the shortest time.

A rapid survey of the general principles and conditions underlying the system of marketing farm products which have developed in the United States and foreign countries will be included in the marketing course. It will also include lectures on the fundamental principles of market organizations, their history, growth and present development, together with studies of the types and functions of marketing agencies. The economical value of co-operative organizations and their methods of formation will also be studied.

In the second term the farm market organization course will be given as a further development of the course in marketing and is intended for such short course students as are interested in the functions of market organizations. It will deal with the forms of organizations used in the livestock, grain, produce, fruit, dairy and other industries handling farm products. The short course in practical farming offers many other excellent opportunities and all Kentuckians are eligible to entrance without examination. The work is offered when there is little to be done on the farm, and the short time and amount of money expended will be more than well spent on the results obtained.

FARMERS COME TO THE SHORT COURSE

Already much interest is being shown in the short course in agriculture, which will start November 1, and continue until February 26. The College of Agriculture is daily receiving many inquiries and a large attendance is expected.

If you are good and capable you aid in the world's advancement materially and therefore morally.

NEGROES IN LOUISVILLE

There are 46,169 white Democrats in Louisville as against 30,309 white Republicans. The latter party gained its majority in Louisville by registering 24,693 negroes, the majority of which were women. These figures were published by the City Democratic Headquarters, which showed that of 112,353 registered voters 53 negroes registered Democratic. The Republicans enrolled 24,693. There were even more Independent negroes in Louisville than there are Democratic, as 283 were registered Independent.

Had the colored women not registered in Louisville the Democrats would have had a majority of over 3,000, and had neither colored men nor women registered the Democrats would have had a majority of 15,000. It is plain to see that the negro holds the balance of power in Louisville.

PLACES PARTY'S INTEREST ALWAYS FOREMOST

Senator Harding's chief policy is to hold together his party; to prevent a split between the Taft-Wickersham-Roosevelt and the Borah-Lodge-Johnson factions. He told this to Rabbi Louis Wolsey of Cleveland two weeks ago at Marion.

Rabbi Wolsey told this to an audience of five hundred women in Louisville in a non-partisan address on Woman Suffrage. According to the speaker, Senator Harding stated that he did not know what his policy would be if elected President, regarding the League of Nations. This uncertainty, Harding explained to the Rabbi, is due to the fact that he considers it his duty to hold his party together. This attitude is in keeping with the statement made by Harding to a Baltimore audience that "he had not worked out any constructive program for the association of nations."

Harding's statement to Rabbi

Wolsey are a complete confession that he places party interest above the welfare of the United States and the peace of the world. Rabbi Wolsey said "if either candidate believes that we should live alone in isolation completely apart from the rest of the league, that man ought to be defeated ignominiously. Nothing can occur in any part of the world that does not affect the rest of the world. We can't stand off."

"Governor Cox said 'I am going in.' That leaves no doubt. We know what those relations with the rest of the world will be if Mr. Cox is elected."

Harding's refusal to entertain any opinion about the League of Nations is clearly due to his evident desire not to offend those who are either for or against it within the Republican party.

A love that is love, never dies any more than truth does. If it dies, it was never love, never was truth.

Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, issued a statement urging the sisters of the various orders of the church to register and vote in the coming election. This is a duty that should be exercised by all women, emphasized Cardinal Gibbons.
